

As vice president of Regulatory Affairs for Alabama Power Company, Alex McCrary is responsible for managing the company's relationship with the Alabama Public Service Commission.

Previously, McCrary was director of Corporate Affairs, where he managed the company's federal legislative strategy as well as developed and maintained relationships with external stakeholders to address issues affecting Alabama Power and the state.

McCrary began his career with Southern Company in 2011 as an engineering analyst with Southern Power, where he was responsible for identifying and analyzing generation acquisition opportunities across the United States.

Prior to joining Southern Company, McCrary worked in the financial services arena in various capacities for private and public companies.

McCrary serves as president of the Alabama State Parks Foundation's board of directors, as well as on the Stillman College board of trustees and the Sloss Furnaces National Historic Landmark board of directors. He is also an appointee to Gov. Kay Ivey's Alabama Workforce Council.

He received a Bachelor of Science in business administration from Auburn University and a Master of Business Administration from the Owen Graduate School of Management at Vanderbilt University.

He and his wife are the proud parents of two daughters.
