

Quentin P. Riggins is senior vice president of community affairs and Southern Division. In this role, he is responsible for the company's external and community development activities and direct executive leadership across south-central Alabama, including Montgomery.

Riggins most recently served as senior vice president of Governmental and Corporate Affairs for Alabama Power, where he led the company's government relations efforts at the state and federal levels, including grassroots and corporate relations programs.

Prior to joining Alabama Power in 2011, the Montgomery native served for nearly a quarter century in Alabama state government. This includes serving in the administration of one governor, in the cabinet of another governor and as a senior staff member for a long serving speaker of the Alabama House of Representatives.

As the senior vice president of the Business Council of Alabama, he led governmental affairs efforts for the organization's 5,000 corporate members before the Alabama Legislature and the United States Congress. After six successful years, Riggins began his own governmental affairs firm in Montgomery before joining Alabama Power as vice president of Governmental Affairs.

A second team All-American and All-Southeastern Conference linebacker, Riggins earned his bachelor's degree at Auburn University in marketing and distributive education. As a current member of Auburn's board of trustees, Riggins provides leadership and governance to the university's academic, administrative and athletic enterprises.

He also serves on the Tigers Unlimited board. He has served and continues to serve in various leadership roles for Auburn as a devoted alumnus, trustee and friend.

Within Alabama Power, Riggins serves on the Management Council, the Central Safety Committee, the Customer Experience Council, and the Alabama Power Foundation Board. Deeply committed to service to his state and his community, Riggins currently is on the boards of the Frank M. Johnson Institute and the Alabama Children's Aid Society.

Quentin and his wife, Kimi (a proud alumna of the University of Alabama), have one daughter, who is a licensed attorney in Alabama.

Quentin P. Riggins
Senior Vice President
Community Affairs and Southern Division,
Alabama Power
Company

